

Creative Writing in Nature: A Home School Workshop

at the environmental nature center!

Thursdays in January, 1:30 – 3PM

For Children 8-12.

Ralph Waldo Emerson said, “To the dull mind nature is leaden; to the illumined mind the whole world burns and sparkles with light.” Nature is often called “pretty”, but it could be described as so much more! In this four-week class concentrated on both poetry and prose, we’ll explore the works of authors that focus on nature, as well as learn some tips and techniques to improve writing skills. Since reading is the key to writing, we’ll be reading many works of children’s literature as well. This workshop will culminate in the creation of a story hike to be displayed at the ENC for the public and students to see.

Parents remain with students at all times (unless arrangements have been made with the instructor). This workshop for children ages 8-12 will be limited to 15 students. Fee: $40/child for the 4-week session. For questions, call Meghan at 949-645-8489 ext. 105, or email meghan@encenter.org.
